Standard for Change Management

The ACMP Standard for Change Management is a collection of generally accepted practices in change management and is one of the foundational elements in advancing the change management profession and discipline. Released in September 2014, the Standard provides the foundation for the Certified Change Management Professional (CCMP) credential, the Qualified Education Provider™ (QEP™) Program, and empowers change practitioners to lead the way change works.

The Standard is Method Neutral and Includes:

- A definition of practices, processes, tasks and activities
- Guidance for organizational change management, for any type of change
- Generally accepted practices and processes used by practitioners across industries, organizations and roles

Translations of the Standard are now available in multiple languages. Each translation has been completed by volunteers to help advance the discipline of change management around the world.

Qualified Education Provider Program

The Qualified Education Provider (QEP) program, developed and managed by ACMP, promotes the consistency of change management training by qualifying courses that align to ACMP’s Standard for Change Management and adult education best practices. The QEP Registry offers potential students one place to quickly find these qualified courses across the globe.

By attending a QEP course, you can...

- Satisfy the education requirement for the CCMP application, as well as the continuing education requirement;
- Expedite the CCMP application and continuing education process;
- Be assured that a QEP will provide high-quality training that aligns to the Standard for Change Management.

By becoming a QEP, your organization can...

- Boost its credibility by aligning to ACMP’s Standard for Change Management and adult education best practices;
- Gain access to a wider, global market of practitioners;
- Demonstrate itself as a partner in furthering ACMP’s goal to advance the discipline of change management.
